Psychologists

Significant Points

- # One half of psychologists are self-employed, about 5 times the average for professional workers.
 - # A doctoral degree is usually required for employment as a licensed clinical or counseling psychologist.
 - # Opportunities for employment in psychology for those with only a bachelor's degree are severely limited.

Psychologists Job Outlook

- Very few opportunities directly related to psychology will exist for bachelor's degree holders. Some may find jobs as assistants in rehabilitation centers, or in other jobs involving data collection and analysis. Those who meet State certification requirements may become high school psychology teachers.
 - Opportunities for people holding doctorates from leading universities in areas with an applied emphasis, such as clinical, counseling, health, and educational psychology, should have particularly good prospects.
 - Psychologists with extensive training in quantitative research methods and computer science may have a competitive edge over applicants without this background.

Psychologists Earnings

- # Median annual earnings of salaried psychologists were $48,050 in 1998.
 - # The middle 50 percent earned between $36,570 and $70,870 a year.
 - # The lowest 10 percent earned less than $27,960 and the highest 10 percent earned more than $88,280 a year.

Psychologists Earnings

Median annual earnings in the industries employing the largest number of psychologists in 1997 were as follows:

- Offices of other health care practitioners $54,000
 - Hospitals $49,300
 - Elementary and secondary schools $47,400
 - State government, except education and hospitals $41,600
 - Health and allied services, not elsewhere classified $38,900
